

LIGHTHOUSE SUPPORTS SUSTAINABILITY INITIATIVE WITH DONATION ON BEHALF OF CUSTOMERS

SEATTLE, WA (December 2008) – Lighthouse Document Technologies, Inc., a leader in electronic discovery services announced today that it made an important donation on behalf of its customers to Leave No Trace Center for Outdoor Ethics, a non-profit organization committed to conservation of the great outdoors.

“At this time of heightened environmental interest and concern, we are proud to give the gift of environmental stewardship in the form of an important donation, on behalf of our valued clients, to one of the most well-regarded conservation groups” said David Rostov, Lighthouse CEO.

Leave No Trace (<http://www.lnt.org>) is a non-profit organization committed to land conservation via education that empowers people to enjoy the outside and our natural environments responsibly.

“We are committed to environmental sustainability and have taken many steps, from an operational perspective, to reduce our environmental footprint” said David Rostov. “We have coupled that effort with contributing financially to those organizations that align with our, as well as our customers’, values of conservation and preservation”.

Lighthouse has also continued to reinvest a portion of its profits back into the environment in order to make the printing of documents sustainable. For every tree the company uses in printing paper documents, Lighthouse plants at least two indigenous trees in the Northwest through a partnership with Plant-It 2020 (<http://www.plantit2020.org>)

About Lighthouse Document Technologies, Inc.:

Seattle-based Lighthouse Document Technologies is a leading full-service electronic discovery provider. The company provides the products and services that litigation teams, corporations and government agencies need to effectively manage complex litigation and successfully meet the growing demands of electronic discovery. The company offers a comprehensive suite of electronic discovery services to collect, process, host and produce documents. The company’s clients include leading law firms, Fortune 500 companies and government agencies.

Lighthouse Document Technologies, Inc.
www.lighthousedt.com
206-223-9690